Message for those participating in the IIMHL and IIDL Opening Plenary and IIMHL sub-plenaries:

In recognition of the wealth of experience, knowledge and perspectives that all leaders attending the IIMHL/IIDL Combined Meeting are bringing to this event, you are asked to come prepared to discuss what is happening in your own sphere of influence as it relates to each of the session topics. In particular, it will be helpful to reflect on solutions to challenges that you have faced in bringing about desired change.

Please be prepared to share highlights about your work with other leaders, as there will be ample time to do so during the sessions. We are hoping to create a reflective space in which to achieve an international exchange of ideas and promising practices.

Leaders will be give nametags featuring an illustration of a bird and will be asked to sit at a corresponding table. Speakers will make brief presentations and facilitated table discussions will follow. Subsequently, one table from each bird category will be asked to share their discussion findings with the room.
Opening Plenary - 11:30 AM to 1:00 PM
Room: Pavilion Ballroom

Leadership and Change: Building the Future We Want
Guy Nasmyth, Associate Faculty, Royal Roads University, Victoria, BC (Canada)

This session will include an overview of trends in leadership including a focus on a highly effective, collaborative approach to leadership, allowing more comprehensive and effective decisions to be made.

Key Questions for Table Discussion:
How can each of us share the burden of leadership to encourage more comprehensive and more effective decisions?
What steps can we each take to move beyond hero as leader towards a more collaborative approach?

IIMHL and IIDL – Thursday, September 24, 2015
Room: Pavilion Ballroom Foyer
LUNCH - 1 PM to 2 PM

Thursday September 24, 2015
Sub Plenary #1 – 2 PM to 3 PM
Wellness – Accelerating Movement
Shelagh Rogers, CBC Radio Host (Canada)

In an interview format, Shelagh will share her personal story of recovery, stigma/discrimination and acceptance.

Shelagh will also reflect on stories to which she has been privy as a radio host, which shed light on the value of whole population approaches that improve mental health. This will include her reflections on being an Honourary Witness to Canada’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) and society’s readiness to hear and accept the significance of population mental health promotion approaches, such as the TRC, to foster mental health.

Key Question for Table Discussion:
What can you share from your experience that you feel is a promising practice to address recovery, stigma/discrimination and acceptance?

Supporting Key-Life Transitions
Donna Thomson, Disability Activist, Author, Consultant and Writer (Canada);
Vickie Cammack, Social Entrepreneur and Care Innovator (Canada)

Life is marked by transitions – from the home environment to school, from elementary school through to high school, from school to work, from living at home to independence, and into older age. These transitions can open and close opportunities and make lasting changes to an individual’s environment, self-concept and expectations.

This session will address transitions faced by people with disabilities across the lifespan. The focus will be on ways to cultivate resilience to manage life’s inevitable changes and explore the role of family, friends and service providers in the process.

Sub Plenary #2 – 3:30 to 4:30 PM |
| Innovation - Accelerating Uptake
Diane Finegood, CEO, Michael Smith Health Research Foundation, Vancouver, BC (Canada)
Diane will provide an introduction to how embracing complexity means we need to change the way we think about solutions.
Key Questions for Table Discussion:
Which of the solutions to complex problems have you tried that worked/didn’t work and why?
Which solutions that you haven’t tried will you try to implement? |
Creating Accessible Environments
Honourable Kathleen Lynch, Minister of State for Primary care, Mental Health and Disability (Ireland)
Carla Qualtrough, Chair of BC’s Minister’s Council on Employment and Accessibility (Canada)
Accessibility in the devices we use, at work, at home, in the community, and how we go from one place to another, is paramount to social and economic inclusion for people with disabilities.
The participants will have the opportunity to address the importance of accessibility in quality of life for people with disabilities, whether in technology, tourism, the built environment, education, legislation or regulations. |

Using the First Nations Mental Wellness Continuum Framework (MWCF), Carol will identify how Indigenous knowledge and culture can guide the transformation of mental health systems and services for the benefit of all – Indigenous and non-Indigenous.

Carol will also address what needed to happen to get (new) partners involved in the MWCF and best and promising strategies to bridge Indigenous and non-Indigenous perspectives to transform systems.

Key Questions for Table Discussion:

- What principles and strategies have you used, in working with others, which have worked well for you?
- What are you prepared to do now to more actively engage new and different partners?

As organizations, we have to be able to take a step back and look at what we are doing, what is working, what is not, and how to improve and measure progress. In this regard, the UN Convention for the Rights of People with Disabilities provides guidance to countries on how to address the full inclusion of people with disabilities.

The participants will have an opportunity to reflect on how we demonstrate the impact of our programs, policies and promising practices.
